A map of South India illustrating the Bahmani and Vijayanagar kingdoms. The Bahmani kingdom is shaded in yellow, and the Vijayanagar kingdom is shaded in green. The map includes the Arabian Sea to the west, the Bay of Bengal to the east, and the Lakshadweep Sea to the southwest. Key cities and towns are marked with red dots, including Ahmadnagar, Bidar, Gulbarga, Bijapur, Hampi, Bellary, Vijayanagar, Halebid, Mysore, Kanchi, Kozhikode, Tanjore, Madurai, and Kollam. The map also shows the Narmada and Godavari rivers. Handwritten red annotations include "MULMAL" at the top, "1636" near Ahmadnagar, "B.K." near Bidar, "1687" near Golconda, and "A' 1703-1704" near Hampi. A legend in the bottom right corner identifies the yellow area as the Bahmani kingdom, the green area as the Vijayanagar kingdom, and the red dots as ancient towns. The map is displayed on a screen, with a person's profile visible on the left side.
